

Developments in Enzymatic Degumming

W.D. Cowan¹, N. Korsholm² & H.C. Holm².

¹Novozymes UK, Chesham, UK ²Novozymes A/S, Bagsvaerd, Denmark ,

Enzymatic degumming of vegetable oils is now established as the technology that results in the lowest oil losses in processing. This paper examines recent developments in improving this process by reducing contact time and establishing yield data. In addition it looks to the near future developments for the control of free fatty acid levels and alternative degumming strategies.